Calling all BrainGell Article readers! I'm Christi and I have written several article for BrainGell. I love writing for BrainGell, but I also love getting input and ideas from the people who keep BrainGell going! I know a lot about the history of Music, and Heavy Metal, But as most of you have picked up, I am still learning about the newer Heavy Metal, and all the bands, and various types of Heavy metal out there Right NOW! I can always do articles on the history of rock, and heavy metal, which I will throw in there from time to time, but I am a great researcher, and I want to write about the bands, and music you all love. So respond to this boardposting, and give me all your ideas on what you want to read about, and about how long you want the articles to run. I am here to make your Heavy Metal experience better. So tell me the bands you want to know more about, even if they are unsigned or indie. Songs you love, so we can get into what the lyrics are and what they mean, you give me a topic, and well take it for a spin. Just let all your ideas pill out. I can not do them all in a week, but Ill be around for awhile, and I want the readers to get what they want. Heres your chance to read articles on topics you want to read about. From the Fathers and some Mothers of Rock, to bands binging metal back to it's glory.. Let me know. I think we can come up with some very interesting articles, that you the readers, would love. however For that to happen, you got to let me know what you want! :laugh: post back real soon!

Oh Berube.. Im a quick learner. It wont take me until June.. Maybe the But I can give you a private progrss report. In all aeriousness. Im learning a lot more than you think, and listening to more than you think... Im submurgung myself, lol. more and more each day. Hey I have even purchased some on Itunes, and I listen to them, and I dont go in chat with the sond off, unless its real late at night. But I do want input from readers too, I want to know what they want to read. Because if somthing or someone is out there, I can usually find it
