Help!

Okay, so yesterday I'm walking down the road trying not to slip on the ice that is hidden by the snow... and I decide to take a path through a field I normally don't, to cut some time off my journey. Over half way into the field I come across a CD jewel case laying on the snow. There are many other foot prints besides mine, so obviously someone has dropped this, but no one is around. I pick it up and flip it over it has 2 CDs in the case, but no paper booklet. The name on the CDs is "Mayhem Metal"... and what luck, the name of each song and artist is printed on the CDs. Seems to be some sort of compilation. Without the booklet, I can't seem to find any copyright date, nor recording studio, distribution company... nothing. I'm hoping by posting the info about the CDs, that someone out there knows more about these CDs, and can fill me in.

Here is what's on CD 1:

Goodbye Thrill - Ticket To Paradise
Air Raid - Nowhere Without Your Love
Bootleg - No More Runnin
Delerious - Heart On Fire
Lec Zorn - Long Time Coming
Shanghai - Big And Sleazy
D Drive - A Little Bitta Sunshine
Sonic X - Crawl
Miss Crazy - So Long
Smash Alley - Fire
Wretch - Make This Garden Burn
JK Northrup - Wired In My Skin
Voodoo Moonshine - Locked And Loaded
Ronnie Borchert - Take Me Away
Cheater - Don't Give Up
Eternal Legacy - Shadow Of Revolution
Smoking Bird - Cool Ass
Adriangale - Feel The Fire
American Angel - Turns To Grey
Kidd Blue - Restless Eyes

CD 2:

Jesse Damon - Cry Out Loud
Skin Kandy - Feeling the Sun
Snakeryder - Hard Life
Bombay Black - Who Do You Think you Are
Ted Poley - End Game
Mirror Mirror - The Bitter End
Amsterdam - Not The Only One
Backwash - Crash
XYZ - Wild
Megattack - Attomatton
Demon Angel - Moving On
Babylon A.D. - I'm No Good For You
Lost Weekend - Forever Moving On
Riot - Knocking At My Door
Bonesmen, The - Guilty As Sin
Cannon - Hellfire
Wind Wraith - Bloodbath
Quite Riot - Free
Ruffians - Running Blind
Violent Divine - Lets Go

Most of the songs seem pretty okay... but not overly hard edged. Only a handful of the bands do I recognize.

Yes, I did rip the CDs, just in case any of you are interested in hearing some of the songs.

Voodoo Moonshine has played in the Metro-Atlanta area and supposedly put on a good show..

As for Violent Divine, I've played them on Braingell Unsigned a few times..

Hmmm... for some reason writing to the bands themselves never ran across my brain. Thanks berube!

I recognized the more heard of bands like XYZ, Babylon A.D. and Quite Riot. Even have some CDs from the bands: Goodbye Thrill, Bombay Black, and Riot. So interesting CDs that have a few big name bands, a few lesser known bands, and now with Ivans help, I know probably the others like Violent Divine are Unsigned?

Makes me really curious to know when these CDs were made.

I now thought I had gotten ahold of every CD from Quite Riot, and this song on the compilation isn't on any of Quite Riots CDs that I own. Anyone know if this song is on any of their CDs? If so, which one? I seem to be missing it.

I think it's a homebrew. Check out the Metal Mayhem website. <http://www.metalmayhem.com/> The homepage has a list of their featured albums, each with a free mp3. The free mp3s match up to the songs on the CDs you found.

Damn! I think you're right Iron Man... nice find!

I should scan the CDs so you can see it, the print looks professional on it. But at least this explains why there isn't any other info on the CDs, and why there was no booklet.

Damn... its a bootleg... I thought I had something really rare.

Probably a cd-burner with lightscribe where the CD laser is used to burn the label. I've seen some a buddy does and they look great.
